

Strategic Partnerships Internship

The Taub Center for Social Policy Studies in Israel, one of Israel's leading policy research institutes, is looking for an intern in the Taub Center's Strategic Partnerships Department to assist with the Center's development efforts. The position has flexible hours and involves preparing content to share with the organization's stakeholders, conducting research on foundations, and working on projects that advance the work of the Taub Center and showcase its impact. While the position is unpaid, the right candidate will receive hands-on mentorship from some of the top leaders in Israel's field of non-profit development, and may have opportunities to attend meetings and events with philanthropists, business executives, policymakers, and other leaders throughout Israeli society.

Interested candidates should send a resume and cover letter to Tova Cohen:
